Description
If I call WTableView::setHeaderHeight(3,WLength::FontEm) I get a header 3 pixels high.
If I call WTableView::setHeaderHeight("3em") I get a heade 3em high.
The screenshot shows also the computed height of the header element: 3px.

Hey,

Because of the computations involved in WTableView to position data, we only support pixel-based row heights. I've clarified the documentation.

Regards,

koen
